Figure 4d | Cue-aligned firing-rate prototypes for all 16 subtypes

Every prototype uses the same firing-rate axis, so response magnitudes and temporal motifs can be compared directly.

The 16 subtype-average firing-rate traces share a single y-axis range and a common −1 to +5 s time axis. The dashed magenta line marks cue onset. These curves summarize functional response motifs from one recording and do not establish stable neuronal cell types.